Dear Lakeview Family,

Last week I addressed the issue that all of us sometimes face – spiritual dryness. One of the ways we fight the good fight of faith (1 Timothy 6:12) over this struggle is by availing ourselves to the ordinary means of grace.

Of course, a central means of grace with regard to our individual spiritual disciplines is prayerful time in the Word of God. Today, I would like to offer you some ways to help make your time in the Word more productive.

In the 1930's and 40's, British and Australian evangelical leaders produced a booklet entitled Quiet Time: A Practical Guide for Daily Devotions, first published by InterVarsity Press in the United States in 1945. Perhaps the most practical part of this 30-page booklet is a summary of some of the prayer disciplines of George Mueller, a well-known German Baptist minister and founder of orphanages, who lived in England. Mueller had questions he asked of a biblical text that the Bible reader could easily turn into a prayer as well:

Is there any example for me to follow?
Is there any command for me to obey?
Is there any error for me to avoid?
Is there any sin for me to forsake?
Is there any promise for me to claim?
Is there any new thought about God himself?

These questions are helpful and may I add this, drawn from a principle I borrow from author Bryan Chapell: “what is the mutual human condition (what Chapell calls the ‘Fallen Condition Focus’) that I share with those to or about whom the text was written that requires the grace of the passage for me to glorify and enjoy God.”

To put it another way: what spiritual concern(s) does the text address? What spiritual concerns do I share in common with those to (or about) whom the text was written?

By identifying that “mutual condition” we share with the original audience, it helps us determine why the text was written, not just for biblical times, but also for our time.

Once we determine that mutual condition, we should remember that God expects us to act on the problems/sins his Spirit reveals. After all, God has revealed to us His Word for “teaching, reproof, for correction, and for training in righteousness” (2 Timothy 3:16).

Hope this helps!

Love and Gratitude,
Pastor Brian
